

1996

As I lay here awake, on a night in December
I write on this paper, the things I remember
This is the year, that so much has changed
Our lives went from normal, and then all rearranged
It started out simple, you were in school
I was a sub, and I thought that was cool
Then one day at home, I got the call
I needed to go, couldn't wait till the fall
So I went down to Charlotte, and came home in the summer
I sold all I owned, and that was a bummer
I saved all that money, to buy one small thing
From Piglet's Place, I gave you a ring
The fifth of July, is our big date
Some say it is destiny, I say it's just great
That day is exciting, and it will be fun
Because our two lives will finally be one
