

2000

Well, it's the year 2000 and you just realized,
It's another poem and your acting surprised
This year's been eventful that much we can say
Things keep on changing each and every day
We have a new president, Bush is his name
It's just too bad he had to play that court game
The quilt club is growing, now you have four
When they come in, I'm right out the door
The bathroom is finished the stone walls are up
Now we don't worry about our little gray pup
We dug in the ground at least it's a start
We'll add an addition, I do think its smart
Now, out to the west a flying we'll go
All the way out to San Diego
And when you get back a tenured you'll be
Ill finally be getting my master's degree
Additions and swimming pools are all in your plan
Next there will be triplets and a beige minivan
And now only one thing without being a griper
I said it before you'll do the diaper!
